

The stability study of antimycotic ointment with shark liver oil

Magdalena MITITELU^a, Victoria HARJAU^b, Gabriela STANCIU^c and Mihaela SMARANDACHE^c

^a*“Ovidius” University, Department of Pharmacy, 8700 RO Constanta, Romania*

^b*Department of Pharmacy, “Carol Davila” University, Bucharest, RO*

^c*“Ovidius” University, Department of Chemistry, 124, Mamaia Blvd, 8700 RO Constantza*

Abstract. Shark liver oil, source of important active biological substances, might be used successfully like active ingredient in the pharmaceutical forms for internal or external use. The aim of this paper is to study the stability of antimycotic ointment with Black Sea shark liver oil. The ointment resulted by mixing the warm components was analyzed in agreement with the standards in force. The product obtained has presented a good stability and tolerance.

Keywords: ointment, shark liver oil, active ingredient.
